REPORT ON "SPECTROSCOPY IN INDUSTRIAL RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT"

Name of program: Spectroscopy in Industrial Research and Development

Date & time: 29/09/2018 & 10:30 am

Resource person: Mr. Amarish Ayachit

Occupation: Research fellow, NOVARTIS, Hyderabad.

Contact details: 8297300046

A scientific research session on "Spectroscopy in Industrial Research and Development" was organized by MNR College of Pharmacy by Mr. Amarish Ayachit, NOVARTIS, Hyderabad as Fellow (General Manager) on 29th September 2018 at 10.30 AM.

The session started by Dr. G Sarvanan by introducing college to participants and welcome address was given by Dr V Alagarsamy. The speaker introduction to the participants was given by Dr S Jayaprakash.

The speaker Mr. Amarish Ayachit started the session with introduction to the Spectroscopy. He explained in detail about the Spectroscopy method development, the parameters to consider. He also explained the guidelines of different countries regarding the method validation parameters and applications of spectroscopy in industry and how to check the impurities in the novel drug.

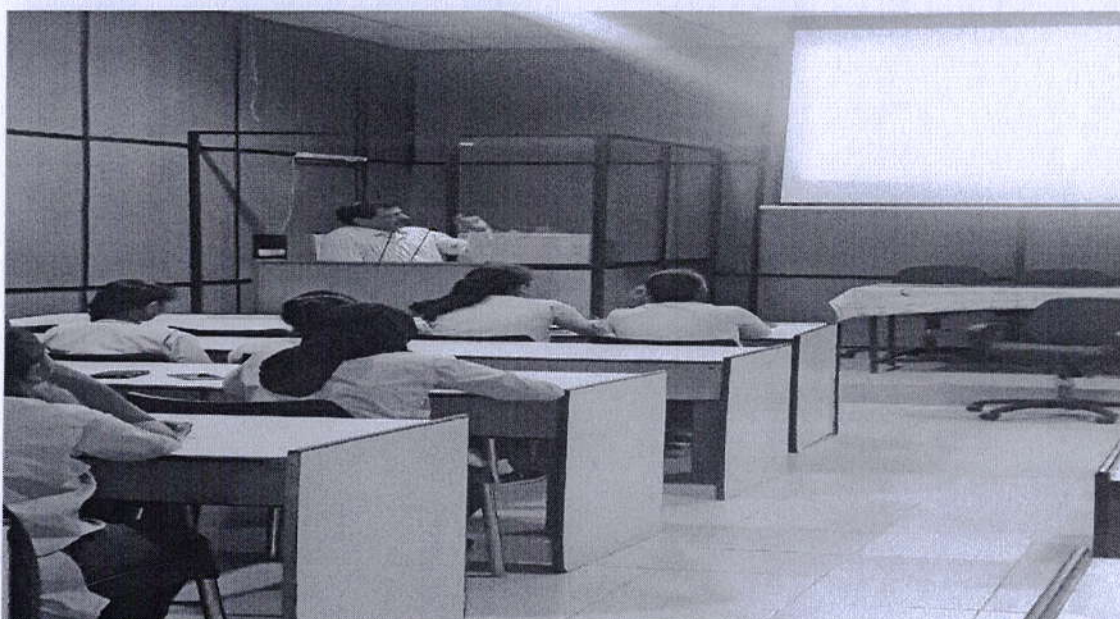

The session was very informative and interactive too as it is a need to enter in industry by pharmacy students. The session was concluded by Thanks giving note and offering a momentum to the speaker for his valuable time and guidance.

Topics covered in this session are spectroscopy is used as a tool for studying the structures of atoms and molecules. This provides a precise analytical method for finding the constituents in material having unknown chemical composition. The use of spectroscopy as an analytical technique to identify impurities, drug content in final formulation. The 77 students were attended the session.
